ORDER

As the reason for making game laws and the necessity for observing them does not seem to be understood in the villages, I am going to explain why game laws have been passed and why they must be preserved. The chief object of the game laws is to prevent game being wiped out, and to ensure that there shall always be plenty of game for the people to shoot. If the game laws are not observed and if people shoot female deer and other animals which are not allowed to be shot, in a short time there will be no animals left to shoot in the hills. Already there has been a great decrease in the amount of game both animals and birds and if people go on shooting and trapping animals and birds in the close season and contrary to the law game, animals and birds will disappear which will be a great loss to the people. Government has considered the matter very carefully and has made rules to prevent animals from being killed out. These rules are made entirely in the interest of the people and must be observed.

In future if any is caught breaking these rules he will be heavily punished. Chiefs and Circle Inspectors must explain to the people the reason for these rules, that the rules are made to benefit the people and that if they are not observed animals will die out and there will be nothing to shoot. All chiefs will be held responsible for seeing that the rules are obeyed within their Rams. Apart from the benefit of the rules to the people it is "Thiang lo" to kill animals when they have got young or are pregnant and to kill birds when they are making nests or looking after their young. According to Lushai custom it is "Thianglo," to kill a 'Vapual' that has a nest, it is equally "Thiang lo" to kill any other animal or bird that has young. For both the reasons given above the same laws must be observed. The rules are written below so that all may know about them and the chiefs must have them explained to the villagers by the Tlangau. It is in the interest of every body to see that these rules are observed.
